TODAY'S ODDITY
SEATTLE, July 16 (UP)—More than a ton of Marble slabs were stolen here last night. The

ROYSTON, ABSHIER HANG SATURDAY
LONG MISSING AIR MAIL PILOT FOUND DEAD

'ROUND
'N'
'ROUND

With the announcement that the Ford contracts will be let Monday, it is expected that actual work will be started on the new plant within a short time.

Local men are to be given preference on the construction work, according to officials of the Ford plant.

Which will mean that more men will be given an opportunity to work.

By this time next year one may expect to see new Ford cars being turned out at the local plant.

The world's worst joke was handed to us last night.

A prisoner, found guilty of murder, stood before the judge.

"I sentence you to be hanged by the neck until dead," the judge said. "Have you any last wishes to make?"

"Yes, your honor," the felon who was a motoring enthusiast replied. "Don't hang me until after the new model Bunkum Eight is announced. I want to see what it looks like."

Play that on your under-wood.

We love the manner in which some of these publicity agents for different organizations act.

After promising by their most sacred oath they will give the newspapers a ring after their meeting and tell them all that happens—they forget to do so.

And when they are called early in the morning they wax wroth and what have you.

Tough, we call it.

MacDonald Is On Way To California

NEW YORK, July 16 (UP)—John MacDonald, key witness in the bombing trial that sent Tom Mooney and Warren K. Billings to prison for life, arrived here tonight to spend an evening in conference on his way to California to retract his vital testimony.

MacDonald and an accompanying party of four left again for California at 11:10 p. m. E. S. T. With him go three affidavits, it was understood—one regarded by Mooney's and Billings' friends as of vital importance. The United Press was informed that this affidavit was obtained from a woman now married and living in Washington who knew MacDonald at the time he gave his testimony in the trial 14 years ago.

MacDonald's lawyer would not discuss the affidavit. The woman in question, with whom the United Press Washington bureau was in communication tonight, denied that she had made one.

The report received by the United Press from apparently high authority was that the woman in question went out with MacDonald frequently at the time of the bombing in 1916 in San Francisco.

BODY FOUND
BY KIN OF FLIER

LOS ANGELES, July 17 (Thursday)—UP—The body of Maurice Graham, Western Air Express mail pilot who crashed in a blizzard January 10, was discovered late yesterday about five miles from where his plane was found three weeks ago, according to word received here last night by Western Air Express officials.

Word of the finding of the body was flashed here by Major Richard McDonald, who has been in charge of the search for the missing pilot.

McDonald did not give any details except to say that there was no doubt of the identity.

McDonald is a relative of Graham's wife who had never given up hope of finding him alive.

Graham's wrecked plane was found recently high in the mountains about eight miles from Cedar City, Utah, with the $300,000 cargo of valuable mail intact.

The flier, who made a distinguished record in the air service in France during the World War, was believed to have perished in an effort to reach a place of habitation.

The plane was found by two shepherders.

Another permit, to David Dryden, was also granted by the inspector. Dryden will build a cottage on the west side of Thirty-second street between Roosevelt and Clinton avenues, at a cost of $4000, the owner doing the work.

Mother Jails Son
On Fraud Charges

SACRAMENTO, July 16.—Anthony Gonzales found a new way of getting money from his mother.

He wired her from Redlands, asking for $50, declaring that if he didn't get it, he'd have to go to jail.

His mother, Mrs. Rosie Delacy, sent the money to him.

But when her son sent her a second telegram, this time asking for $87.50, she became suspicious.

As a result her son today is being held in jail until the district attorney decides what should be done with him.

Unopposed
C. L. DODGE
WILL SEEK RE-ELECTION

Notwithstanding that he has no opposition for the office of county treasurer, C. L. Dodge is putting his announcement in the papers, and making visits to the different parts of the county, so that voters might know he is a candidate to succeed himself.

Dodge has served as county treasurer for two terms, has conducted the office in a manner that is not only satisfactory to the taxpayers of the county, but reflects credit on himself.

During Dodge's incumbency the treasurer's office has been conducted on an efficient, as well as a business basis. Always courteous and obliging to everyone who transacts business at his office, he has made hosts of friends.

Pilot Killed
In Stunt Try

HASBROUCK HEIGHTS, N. J., July 16.—UP—Diving from an altitude of 4000 feet in the wingless fuselage of his monoplane, Roy Ahearn was killed today when the craft crashed into meadows bordering a highway near here.

Ahearn had been trying to perform an outside loop, one of the stunts he intended to use next Saturday in a flying exhibition for the benefit of the Elks' crippled children's fund.

W. D. Davis, owner of the plane, was at the field watching Ahearn's flying. Davis said that the pilot had gone above 4000 feet and had started a dive at a speed close to 200 miles an hour when the fuselage and the wings separated.

Ahearn wore a parachute but for some reason failed to use it.

The total payroll of the company runs in excess of $25,000,000, according to A. F. Hockenbeamer, president of the company, while the latest statistics show that 14,242 men are being employed by the Pacific Gas and Electric company.

Hockenbeamer stated that no halt has been made in the many projects planned by the organization of which he is the head. 4 SENATORS
LISTEN TO ATTACKS

WASHINGTON, July 16.—UP—Readings from history made up a large part of London treaty debate in the senate today as the strong pro-treaty majority kept quiet and made plans to bring the naval agreement to a final vote.

Senators Copeland, N. Y., McKellar, Tenn., and Pittman, Nev., all Democrats, occupied the six hours of the session with anti-treaty speeches, and McKellar introduced his two reservations designed to force freedom of the seas and abandonment of British naval stations located near the United States.

While 100 embryo officers of the army, students at the Citizens Military Training camp at Fort Washington, near here, listened from the gallery, the drapper Copeland presented his arguments to a senate chamber which contained at one time only four senators.

Pittman did not commit himself specifically on the treaty, but he said it would give Japan absolute control of the Western Pacific ocean and an opportunity to abolish the "open door" in China. The treaty, he said, was of minor importance compared with the questions raised by President Hoover's refusal to produce the secret documents pertaining to the pact.

McKellar charged that the London naval conference which drafted the treaty created so much "bad blood" that a war between France and Italy was nearly precipitated.

He complained because the United States was not allowed in the London treaty to build another 35,000-ton modern battleship, and reverted to the Washington naval conference of 1921 to denounce the battleship limitation pact there signed as "the greatest injustice ever put over on the United States."

Senator Shortridge, repn., Cal., dipped into history at once, and produced the Congressional record of March 29, 1922, to prove that McKellar, although not present, was officially reported as favoring the treaty. McKellar protested that he sought to have the record changed to show his opposition.

The Washington treaty was ratified 7 to 1, one senator, Francis B. Pickens of Maryland, opposing it. Among those who voted for it are the leaders of the present opposition, including Senators Hale, Moses, Oddie and Johnson.

McKellar's resolutions, as proposed, would require British and Japanese acceptance before the treaty could become effective.

FOSTER ON WAY TO EAST

LOS ANGELES, July 16 (UP)—Frank Foster, ally of "Bug" Moran, and George Davis, his bodyguard, tonight were on their way east to face charges arising from their participation in gang warfare.

Foster, secretly taken out of the Los Angeles jail, was believed to be on his way to Chicago where he will be questioned concerning the murder of Alfred Lingio, Chicago Tribune reporter. A Chicago grand jury indicted him as an accessory to the slaying.

Details of Foster's return were held secret but it was admitted that Blaney Matthews, district attorney investigator, took Foster from jail and turned him over to Chicago authorities in a nearby suburb.

Foster, according to police, once owned the gun found near Lingio's body in a loop subway.

Davis, alias Harry Kirschenbaum, left with two Detroit detectives to face charges of assault with intent to kill and violation of the federal narcotic laws.

Pair and mild today and tomorrow; morning fogs, moderate to fresh west winds.

VETS FORM
C. C. COUNTY
HINKLEY FOR CORONER CLUB

By MCY
Formation of a Contra Costa County Hinkley for Coroner Veterans club was effected at a mass meeting in the Hotel Carquinez last night.

Everett Cohen was elected president, by a unanimous vote; T. M. Carlson, William Keltz, George Sanderson, W. A. Vickery, A. A. Hughes, and Phil Jones were elected vice presidents; H. J. Simmons was elected secretary and Paul Beedy was elected treasurer.

Attorney T. M. Carlson was the principal speaker of the evening in behalf of Dr. A. B. Hinkley, candidate for county coroner.

Hinkley Praised
Carlson was high in his praise of Hinkley, telling of the manner in which the doctor has become established in Richmond and of the multitude of friends he has made.

The attorney declared that Hinkley is not running against the incumbent coroner alone, but is running against the numerous undertakers in the county, all seeking the benefits of the position.

"If a man drops dead on the street," Carlson said, "he is immediately rushed to the coroner's undertaking parlors, with no regard for the wishes of relatives of the deceased."

No Promises
"Hinkley is making no promises to any undertaker, but will consult with relatives of anyone making death by accident, and abide by them."

Carlson concluded with a resume of Hinkley's activities in Richmond telling of his being elected to the post of exalted ruler of the Richmond Elks lodge, and later of his election to the Richmond City Council.

"Hinkley was the first veteran to hold a post on the city council," Carlson said, "but the ice was broken and there are now three, all seeking to assist in any way possible, the service organizations."

Simons Presides

H. J. Simons opened the meeting and introduced Dr. Hinkley.

The candidate for county coroner spoke briefly on his views of the post, and asked that the veteran organizations pledge their cooperation to his coming fight.

Following Carlson's speech, Dr. Lowell R. Sears, commander of the American Legion addressed the gathering, and declared, "If every veteran puts his shoulder behind the wheel and shoves, we can put Dr. Hinkley over the top."

Organized Effort
"Organized effort is the only way to win this election," Sears declared.

George Sanderson, prominent Richmond veteran, spoke a few words and stated "We are not backing ex-service men for any office because they're ex-service men, but because a candidate we endorse is the man for the job."

During the meeting upon an inquiry by Phil Jones it was brought out that the club is not endorsing all veteran candidates for State and County offices, but Hinkley only.

According to the plans made last night, each of the vice presidents will have a district embracing several communities, each of those to have an individual campaign manager.

As a start of that plan, Charles Dean of Crockett, who was present, was named campaign manager for that city. Other managers will be decided upon at an early meeting of the officers.

The condemned men apparently are resigned to their fate. They ate a hearty meal before retiring.

Even when the Rev. Regis Barrett, Catholic prison chaplain told them his final appeal to Gov. W. H. Adams had been denied, they failed to show any sign of emotion.

"Well, Father," said Royston, "you had better stick around. Don't go fishing for we might need you the next couple of days."

Both said they would "take their medicine" like their leader, Ralph Fleagle who was hanged last week.

Both Royston and Abshier are former residents of Richmond, as was Fleagle who hanged last week.

DOHENY CELEBRATES 37TH OIL WELL ANNIVERSARY

LOS ANGELES, July 16 (UP)—Edward L. Doheny, one of the world's richest oil magnates, took a pick and shovel today and demonstrated how he and a little band of fellow workers dug the oil well that started him on the road to fortune.

All except two of the men who were with Doheny when he "brought in" Southern California's first well were present to take part in the 37th anniversary planned and carried out by Doheny. Several hundred spectators also came to the original site at Colton and Patton streets, Los Angeles.

Used Pick
Many of them were persons who benefited by the flow of black gold Doheny started, while others were drawn by the unusual spectacle of a multi-millionaire playing a pick and shovel.

Doheny, himself, smiled when he took the implements in his hands.

"It's a long time since I used a pick and shovel," the oil man said. "But I think I still know how."

First Well
Then he picked away at a site near where the first well was located. The original derrick has long since been torn down but one of those erected soon after was used as a substitute in the ceremony.

"Thirty-seven years ago Charlie Canfield and I looked at this spot and decided there was some oil underneath," Doheny explained. "We started with a pick and shovel and after going down eight feet we rigged up a derrick because we no longer could throw the dirt out. We had a block and tackle affair to lower a bucket into the hole. An old horse owned by one of us was used at the end of the rope to pull the bucket up when it was full of dirt. The whole thing cost about $50."

Canfield and a man named Grady were the only original oil prospectors missing, both having died some years ago.

Market Opened
Charles Canfield, Jr., who as a boy of 10, played around the oil well and carried water for the workers, was on hand and where she will visit for several weeks. Miss Cherry is a resident of the Hotel Carquinez.

Dog Catcher's Tactics Cause Political Fight

WINDSOR, Ont.—One question, profound and epochal, may face all candidates for public office in campaigns here and in neighboring municipalities: "Who are you for, the dogs or the dog-catcher?"

The somewhat unusual note in political battles is the result of a stormy controversy centering around Eugene LaMarr, demon Schnauzer-snarer for the four allied townships here.

This alrealee arrestee, in enforcing a local law which prohibits dogs from frolicking on the streets unleashed, has snatched up many a violet-scented pet from under the very nose of its owner and hustled it off to the pound in the company of dogs obviously unrefined and unscented. According to some critics, he even uses a bewitching bit of canine femininity, who vamps stray male dogs into his heavily-mitted hands. These practices have earned him the dislike of many dog lovers.

So strong is the feeling on the dog versus dog-catcher question that it has become a political issue and an association is reported being organized for the express purpose of removing either the law or the dog-catcher. The association may demand every political candidate to express his beliefs on dog-catching from one of the openly expressed planks of his political campaign.

Meanwhile, LaMarr's enemies increase daily while his defenders treat their fellow citizens to "Keep the Dog Catcher out of Politics."

St. Louis Has Canine Cop

SST. LOUIS, Mo.—"Officer Bob" of the St. Louis police department wears brass buttons on his collar, is the best sleuth of his kind in the city, patrols a beat 24 hours a day and never went to rookie school.

Being footed instead of two like most coppers, and with a barking voice that beats a traffic cop's, "Officer Bob" has been able to rise fast in the department and there is some talk of making him sergeant.

The nondescript dog, part bull and part terrier has six arrests on record so far this year.

All day long and often through the night, the dog follows Patrolmen Thomas Walsh or George Checkett around their downtown beats. A man with a bundle who acts suspiciously when Bob barks—for the dog always barks at anyone with a bundle—is certain of arrest.

GOLDEN CALF SCORES BIG HIT HERE

Fox Movietone has scored another tremendous hit. "Her Golden Calf," described as a comedy with music, will make its bow at the Fox-California theater today.

This picture, with an amusing story of Greenwich Village and its artists as a background, has everything that a musical comedy should have. Beauty, talent, youth, personality, tuneful music, comedy of a high order and dancing unexcelled before on stage or screen, are the elements which make this a production no one who enjoys pictures should miss.

Sue Carol, in the best role of her career, establishes herself as a real comedienne of unusual talent and a singer of more than ordinary ability.

Jack Mulhall, as the artist-hero, is eminently satisfactory in his light role and also reveals a charming voice in a song number with Miss Carol.

El Brendel, cast in a typical Swedish role, contributes liberally to his fund of comedy and again stamps himself as the foremost character comedian of the audible screen. His song number, "A Picture No Artist Can Paint," alone is worth the price of admission.

Marjorie White, sensational "find" of "Sunnyside Up" again proves she is headed for early stardom by her outstanding performance as Sue's girl friend. She is a rare comedienne, with a dynamic personality that marks her as a real actress.

Richard Keene, as Miss White's boy friend, also turns in an excellent performance and signs tunelessly and dances delightfully. Paul Page, remembered for his leading roles in "Speakeasy" and "The Girl From Havana" does a good job as the vice-president of the hokey concern who gives Mulhall his big chance.

Spectacular dance numbers, staged by Earl Lindsay, are contributed by a beauty chorus of 100. The final sequences of the picture introduce to the audible screen, for the first time, the illustrators Show, annual high links of Greenwich Village artists and their modistes.

"The music by Cliff Friend and Jimmie Monaco, is of the hit variety. 'You Gotta Be Modernistic,' 'Maybe Someday,' 'Can I Help If I'm In Love With You' and 'I'm Telling the World About You,' all have the makings of best sellers and undoubtedly will be frequently heard over the radio and wherever music is played.

Millard Webb has done a splendid job of directing. Also on the program is Clarke and McCullough in "Detectives Wanted."

BOOKLET FOUND ON SLAYER OF FINANCIER

LOS ANGELES, July 16.—UP—While Motley H. Flint was buried with simple rites today a controversy developed over the influence of the collapse of the $100,000,000 Julian Petroleum corporation may have had in his spectacular courtroom murder last Monday.

A tiny, worn little booklet named "Julian Thieves in Politics," written by Rev. R. P. "Bob" Shuler, broadcasting minister, was one of the odds and ends taken from the pockets of Frank D. Keaton, middle-aged little real estate man, who fired three shots into Flint's body as the multi-millionaire left the witness stand in a superior court.

The book named Flint as a powerful financier and linked his name with those of S. C. Lewis, Jacob Berman, and other asserted wreckers of the oil company in which approximately 40,000 investors lost their savings.

Book Taken

It was said at the district attorney's office that the booklet had been entered as evidence in the case to be "used for its entire worth." This was taken as an indication that the booklet might be one of the state's points in attempting to prove the shooting was premeditated by Keaton.

Keaton, who lived a quiet life with his wife and two small children, claimed to have lost $10,000 in the last few years by bad stock investments.

After his arrest he babbled that "Flint was big enough to have stopped the collapse of the stock market," and made numerous references to the Julian crash in which he lost no money but seemed to hold Flint and others responsible for losses to other small investors.

Frequent Visitor

It was established that Keaton was a frequent visitor in courtrooms where Julian civil and criminal cases have been on trial almost continuously since 1927.

Flint's funeral today drew scores of persons prominent in Los Angeles business life and in the Hollywood motion picture studios, many of whom he had helped finance in early days.

His wife, Mrs. Gertrude Flint, who married the multi-millionaire when both worked in the Los Angeles postoffice years ago, also attended.

Pair Separated

The Flints separated about the time the banker assumed prominence, but Mrs. Flint explained they always had been friends.

"We never were divorced and he made allowance for me," she said. "I have a wonderful big home and a few boarders just for company. I wrote to him just the day before this terrible thing happened."

RECORD FLIER DIES OF HURTS

BENNINGTON, Vt. July 16 (UP)—Frank Goldsborough, 19-year-old aviator, who suffered a fractured skull and other injuries as a result of a plane crash in a fog-shrouded mountain forest near here Monday, died at Putnam Memorial hospital here late today.

The youthful flier, holder of the junior transcontinental flight record, succumbed to his injuries without regaining consciousness. He was brought into the hospital early yesterday in an unconscious condition after found by a rescue party pinned under the wreckage of his plane where he had lain for nearly 18 hours.

Mrs. Gertrude Goldsborough, stepmother of the youth, who arrived here upon learning of the accident, was not at the flier's bedside when the end came at 5:40 P. M. She arrived at the hospital about five minutes after he had expired.

Donald Mockler, New York publicity man, who was with Goldsborough when the plane crashed, and who wandered through the woods for more than five hours seeking aid for the injured record holder, was much broken up when informed of his companion's death.

"Frank put up a great fight," Mockler said shortly after visiting the hospital tonight. "I hoped he could live. There is one thing you can say—he flew that plane up until the last, and although he never regained consciousness, he appeared to be in the cockpit all the time."

An operation, performed on the injured flier's skull yesterday by Dr. J. C. Armstrong to remove a piece of bone which was causing pressure on the brain, brought only temporary improvement in his condition. The youth suffered a relapse at the hospital at three o'clock this afternoon from which he never recovered.

At no time during his confinement did Goldsborough regain consciousness. His condition during the entire time was reported by hospital attaches as "critical."

RICHMOND FORGES AHEAD

In a year generally considered dull, the city of Richmond forges ahead.

During the first half of the year, we have acquired one substantial industry which is now operating—the Filice and Perrelli cannery; have closed a deal for another which will be effective soon—the MacMillan Oil company; and have seen bids asked on the largest of all—the Ford Motor company's assembling plant.

This is not bad for a year which it is generally admitted has been marked by a serious business depression throughout the country. Richmond is a bright spot.

Industrial lands and transportation facilities are available here for all types of industry, from the smallest to the largest. Eastern industrial leaders are steadily discovering this fact, as attested by our growth in recent years. The growth will be much more spectacular in the years just ahead. Richmond has attained a momentum which will carry it far. A large amount of definite development work has been done on the inner harbor and in such districts as the Ellis Slough, thereby adding new industrial acreage which is well located and well served by land and water transportation facilities.

In all this development the Chamber of Commerce has played a part, and it will continue to devote itself wholeheartedly to Richmond's industrial progress.

THE WOMAN OF IT

By Marguerite Moore Marshall
Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

If Woman Ever Celebrates Her Independence!

Now that women, ever so dutifully and patriotically, have listened to all the noises of the "Noiseless Fourth" (including male oratory); now that women have applied salve to the burns and bound up the cuts of the "safe and sane Fourth" (with its list of insane and unsafe casualties to the male of the species), now that women are drawing a long breath after the influx of week-end holiday company and the hot and heavy holiday dinners demanded by the men of the family—wouldn't it be a happy thought for every woman to celebrate a Declaration of Independence all her own? For it we suggest the following clauses:

She will refuse to wear out her week-ends and herself making up extra beds and cooking in her servant-less summer home for the horde of self-invited motoring acquaintances, who descend upon her as the lemmings rush down to the sea.

She will choose clothes which she herself finds becoming, comfortable, healthy, appropriate, reasonably priced, instead of wearing things she doesn't like and can't afford because "they're being worn."

She will eat and serve on her table at least some of her own favorite dishes, instead of sacrificing her dietetic preferences perpetually to those of her husband and children.

If a young man promises to call her up at a certain time and she doesn't hear from him, she will make and deliberately break a date with him at the first opportunity—since he who doesn't keep his word to a girl doesn't deserve to have her keep hers to him.

She will open the windows in her office instead of suffocating slowly in order to temper the wind to the bald heads.

She will not longer endure the proxy autobiography and vintage funny stories of elderly self-satisfied males just because she is naturally polite and doesn't like to snub even the worst of bores.

She will not sew on buttons or tell lies or dip into her allowance for funds for the brother who always comes to her when he's in a scrape and always takes some other girl to parties.

She will not ruin her complexion, writhe under midge and mosquito bites and briar scratches, get a crick in her neck and an ache in her back, trying to be a "good fellow" by following her husband on a fishing or camping trip which she loathes.

She will not forever deny herself new clothes, theatre tickets, trips to a beauty parlor, in order that her children may have as many of these luxuries as the budget will stand.

She will not allow any man to contradict her and argue her down just to keep the peace—though she knows her point of view is right and can prove it.

She will not suffer her sex to be slurped in superficial and inaccurate generalizations, without opening her mouth in defense of woman.

She will not feel compelled to spend hours and dollars on all the new devices and processes for keeping young and beautiful—if this super-grooming seems to her a waste of time and a nuisance.

She will not join any organization, serve on any committee, beg for any fund unless she honestly wants to do so—she will no longer be telephoned into saying an unwilling "yes" to the Social Servers.

No matter how deeply and ardently she loves a man, she will cultivate some other interest in life, so that if he fails her she will not be left hopeless and helpless.

She will keep—oh, crowding defiance of men, fashion and fate—dare to grow fat if she herself honestly doesn't mind being that way!

ONE OF THE NEW FORMAL EVENING WRAPS IN WINE COLORED LYONS VELVET

AN EVENING GOWN IN STIFF WHITE SATIN BROCADED WITH SILVER THREADS

THERE'S a real change facing the world in fashion—yes, dear—another change. It's fine and peppy and inspirational and all to be faced with these brand new ideas, but it's breath-taking even for the young, speed-minded persons.

Now, here's a fashion for stiff fabrics. Oh, the most Renaissance, 1830, picturesque and lovely things you can imagine—stiff taffeta, stiff faille, stiff satin, stiff brocades, stiff Lyons and Renaissance velvets, take as their theme the Wales or open throat oxford, three or four ejectives being employed to carry out the trimming line.

The seamless oxford was the U throat detail is the new type for wear with broad shoulders and top coat styled in the mood of autumn.

The skirts of these new dresses are long and wide and straight. They flare out to the floor and stand by themselves—the sort famed of old that you step out of and leave standing, unsupported on the floor. I am talking about evening dresses and those for formal afternoon occasions. The dress of the daytime is another matter entirely, the story of which will come later.

Bodies are tight and fitted with drooping shoulders. The beauty of the whole new theory of design is simplicity—line, line and more simplicity. You are lost when you take to trimmings, for then the charm, the purity and grace are lost in the twinkling of an eye, and if you are inexperienced in these things you will only be left to wonder what is the matter. A lace collar wrapped around a dress of stiff Lyons velvet would be a calamity. If any lace, it must be read and more of the Valenciennes type of thing—just a touch of it, a gilet or an underlying yoke—nothing to speak of—only an accent.

Danger Ahead

MISTAKES happen in every era of dress. I'm almost anticipating errors for this one, but my pessimistic nature will not allow me to believe that all will be love and beauty when these fashions begin to make their appearance. A

Formality Leads

They are supremely formal—nothing but formal. If you wear them around at any old time just because they are becoming and new you are out of luck, for all smartness will fly to the winds. There's just got to be a party for one of the stiff dresses and now that the formal costume is here there is nothing left for society that I can see but to shape life in a formal manner in order to live up to the standards of dress. If not, it will be a case of "all dressed up and no place to go."

Don't Grow Old Gracefully

DON'T grow old gracefully—no for the matter of that—no any other way! Don't grow old at all. Don't even think about it. Grow young. And think about THAT instead!

Why are we bringing this up again? Well, because a rebel of sixty-five—who got sick of her drab silver point of view!—died and dyed it red—no, pink—and set all the neighbors to work trying to outdo her.

They said, "...and at her age!" They said, "She must be going modern!" They said, "I'd never do it!" and "When it's time for you to be gray you should be gray!" and "She ought to grow old gracefully!" Oh, they said everything.

But did she care? Not she. You ought to see her. You ought to see the new light in her eyes and the lift in her walk. And you ought to hear her laugh and her brand-new belief that a little dash of red could possibly work such a big miracle.

If we sound enthusiastic over all this, we wish to make clear that it is over the spirit and not the color. The color could be bettered, toned down a bit, made to look more professional, more natural, you know. But it's the principle of the thing that makes us toss the chapeau in the air, her point-blank refusal to grow old gracefully or any other way.

Why should you? Why should any woman? So many "older" women are held back from bursting out in a yellow hat or switching their point of view or venturing out onto the dance floor, just because of an old wives' prejudice against such things.

If a daffodil hat makes you feel twenty-five and gay, then wear one. The chances are you'll LOOK younger for it. If you ache to caper to the newest boogie-woogie, then why restrain yourself? Suppression brings complexes and complexes beget wrinkles, gray hair and a disposition that nobody loves.

The thing to do is to grow YOUNG gracefully, to choose a becoming yellow hat and a flattering new shade of hair and a really intelligent new point of view. But be forewarned of the penalty—"they" will do a lot more whispering about the woman whose rejuvenation is a success!

A DISH A DAY

One of the most neglected fruits in our markets is the gooseberry. Indeed, at one big market in the uptown section, the man in charge told me that while he does a big volume of business with every other sort of berry for preserving, he has yet to sell more than eight or ten quarts of gooseberries during the entire season. Other markets report that they sell gooseberries only to their English customers. And yet the sale of gooseberry jam is second only to the sale of orange marmalade in many stores.

A few years ago this might have been easily accounted for in the days before commercial peetin was widely known, and were the struggles of the average housewife who tried to make gooseberry jam. By the time the berries had cooked long enough to be tender and to jelly solidly, the skins were shriveled and the fruit juice discolored. Now, however, it is possible for any one to make gooseberry jam in a short time and achieve a product that is clear and dainty in coloring. And goose-

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."

Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

DELEGATES TO VISIT IN CITY

Four hundred or more representatives of the Latin-American countries and business leaders will visit Richmond on August 20. These visitors will attend the Pan-American Reciprocal Trade conference at Sacramento August 25 to 31 inclusive.

They are coming to Richmond to learn how it is possible for a community of 20,000 people to build a port fourth on the Pacific coast to produce nearly a quarter of a billion dollars worth of manufactured products, to maintain and operate a splendid system of municipal docks, warehouses, and terminals, to provide deep water for giant ocean-going cargo vessels and to develop an annual payroll close to $21,000,000.

These 400 unofficial delegates to the conference will get a close-up of the mighty Parr-Richmond terminal on the inner harbor, the beginning of the big Ford assembly plant, the cannery now located on the harbor and they will meet with Richmond's industrial and commercial leaders at a luncheon now being arranged by the Richmond chamber of commerce.

Here in Richmond they will see the largest oil refinery in the United States, covering more than 1250 acres. Here they will glimpse some twenty other major industries whose products are known the world over.

Out of this visit of these Latin-American ambassadors of trade will come a better understanding of what Richmond has to offer them in manufactured products, a better method of bringing Richmond and the great markets of Latin-America together for their mutual benefit.

And following their visit to Richmond the tour of Contra Costa county will be continued, according to the tentative schedule announced by Cliff Brooks, Oakland, in charge of the state tour. The shore line between Richmond and Avon is definitely decided upon in the itinerary. Here the visitors will see numerous other great industries which have contributed and are contributing so much to maintaining Contra Costa county as the third manufacturing county in California in the value of products turned out each year.

If time will permit a complete tour of the county will be made and committees are now at work trying to reconcile the time it will take to make this tour of the county and the time allotted the delegates.

The Pan-America Reciprocal Trade Conference marks an epoch in the history of the Pacific coast and looms as an outstanding achievement fraught with tremendous significance to the future development and prosperity of the entire Pacific coast.

Shuler Is Held Political Boss Of Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES, July 16, (UP)—Rev. R. P. "Bob" Shuler, Trinity M. E. minister prominent for his radio broadcasts and his recent contempt of court jail sentence was pictured as the political boss of Los Angeles during a heated session at the city hall tonight when city prosecutor Lloyd S. Nix resigned.

Nix gave a heated statement to the press in which he said Shuler's influence was behind a request by Mayor John C. Porter that he resign.

"That's a d— lie!" Mayor Porter shouted. "Yes, just that, and I want to be quoted in exactly those words and no others."

Nix said he had every reason to believe that Mayor Porter liked him and was pleased with his work, but that Shuler did not like him.

"I have often been made to understand that if I could win the approval of Shuler I could hold office indefinitely," Nix said. "The Mayor gave me the choice of being removed or resigning. I resigned."

Rev. Shuler also denied Nix's statement.

"He is complimenting me most highly but I don't deserve it," the minister said.

Nix and Shuler recently exchanged radio barrages when Shuler's pamphlet "Julian Thieves in Politics" was found in the pocket of Frank Keaton after he killed M. Flint, multi-millionaire financier in a superior court room.

RICHFIELD GAS USED BY FLIER

SAN DIEGO, July 16.—Official calibration of the barograph carried by Miss Ruth Alexander, young San Diego aviator, on her recent altitude flight will disclose that she set a new ceiling record for women pilots of light planes; that her ship attained a height of 26,600 feet.

Such was the opinion expressed here today by officials of the National Aeronautical association who observed the flight above Lindbergh field, and who unofficially checked the barograph at Miss Alexander's flight finish.

This altitude record was attained with a 90-horsepower low wing light Barling monoplane, whose Warner "Scarab" motor was fueled with Richfield gasoline and lubricated with Richlube motor oil and rocker-arm grease.

That the daring young flier attained a new record and broke her own previous high mark in spite of unconsciousness suffered when her supply of oxygen was exhausted, was disclosed when she landed. Still in a semi-daze from her experience, Miss Alexander declared that she remembered nothing after having reached 22,000 feet till she regained consciousness at 18,000 feet. The plane was then slowly settling by easy banks.

It was only when her barograph inspected that the observers learned the amazing fact that the ship had "flown itself" upward for nearly 5000 feet after Miss Alexander became dazed from lack of oxygen and then, still unoriented, started earthward by well balanced glides.

U. S. Prisoners To Be Fingerprinted

SAN FRANCISCO, July 16.—Delayed execution of orders from Washington insisting that fingerprints be taken of all federal suspects and defendants, was today begun in the office of Marshal Fred Esola.

According to a written opinion received in San Francisco from U. S. District Attorney George Hatfield, "unreasonable force" will not be used to compel candidates to submit to having their fingerprints taken. Hatfield also stated that no prints may be exchanged with state officials or otherwise made public, except when the person is a fugitive from justice.

Death Calls Oldest Key Worker Here

Funeral services for the late Benjamin Bowen, oldest conductor on the Key System service, will be held from the Wilson and Kratzer parlors tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. Fellow employees of the Key System will serve as pall bearers and interment will be in Sunset View cemetery.

Bowen, 50 years of age, was one of Richmond's pioneer residents, locating here in 1901, the same year he started in the employ of the Key System. He was transferred to the Richmond terminal in March, 1907, where he worked until taken ill a few months ago.

A month ago, his wife took him to the mountains near Sonoma but his condition grew rapidly worse and he was brought to his sister's home at Riverbank. He passed away there Tuesday night. Left to mourn are his wife, Mrs. Anna Bowen; son Leon of Richmond; daughter, Mrs. Loella Lincoln, of San Pablo; father, Alexander Bowen, of Richmond; sister Mrs. J. C. Hall of Riverbank, and grandchild, Shirley Lincoln.

County Ranchers Warned Of Fires

MARTINEZ, July 16.—In accordance with a radio announcement to beware of a suspected pyromaniac, ranchers and rural residents of Contra Costa county are keeping close watch on their farms and crops.

The announcement followed the finding of a sister note near the point of origin of a serious brush fire near Hayward, which read: "Follow my trail of charcoal to the border."

Grape Control Board To Meet

SAN FRANCISCO, July 16 (UP)—A meeting of the grape control board will be held here Friday.

It was called today by William A. Boekel, secretary of the board who hopes that announcement can be made before Friday that the sign-up campaign has been successful.

Boekel said that he estimated that 80 per cent of the state's acreage had been signed to enter the program under which aid for the grape industry would be secured from the federal farm board.

Tabulation of figures is still continuing.

FLIWER PLANE INVENTED IN CALIFORNIA

SAN FRANCISCO, July 16.—After experiments covering a period of two years, the perfection of a glider plane the "air flivver" of the future, was announced here today by Henry Mattley, president of a local airplane company.

According to Mattley present plans call for the use of a 30-horsepower motor which will give the light craft a cruising speed of 50 miles per hour, and a "ceiling" of from 12,000 to 14,000 feet, capable of clearing the higher mountains.

The total weight of the machine, including passenger and engine, gasoline and oil, has been estimated at approximately 600 pounds. The gasoline consumption, Mattley states, will be approximately two gallons per hour.

Professor John E. Younger, of the University of California, who has perfected the mechanical details of the new plane as well as the data required by the United States department of commerce preparatory to the manufacture of such commercial craft, is enthusiastic in his praise of the new glider plane. According to Professor Younger the outstanding features of this air flivver are its ability to land and fly from a small field, such as a city block, its slow landing speed ease of operation for the amateur flyer, its high "ceiling" and its low price and operating cost. It is said that an individual can learn to fly the glider plane with perfect safety in from three to four hours.

Mattley states that the Continental Motor company of Detroit is now building a special engine for this type of craft to be installed as soon as production is started. The plane is to be a one-passenger, cabin monoplane, approximately five feet in height. The air flivvers will be manufactured at the Mattley plant in San Bruno, near San Francisco's municipal airport, Mills field.
